“As a candidate for Roy City Council, my desire is to get involved, to advocate for accountability in government, and to protect citizens’ rights. Amid the recent economic changes in the city, I believe that advocating for responsible economic growth is critical for Roy and its citizens. The role of government is to provide necessary services to the community and serve as the voice of the people. I promise to protect residential rights, balance business interests, and uphold governmental responsibilities by considering the voices of all Roy citizens when making decisions with far-reaching impacts. I look forward to the opportunity to work together with the citizens and the City of Roy and be your voice on the Roy City Council.”
